

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for making an anonymous computerized commerce transaction involving the delivery of digital merchandise including the steps of sending first sensitive information from a first entity to a first intermediate entity, processing the first sensitive
5 information at the first intermediate entity, creating first non-sensitive information operable to approve the transaction by the first intermediate entity, sending the first non-sensitive information to a third entity operable to perform the transaction, performing the transaction at the third entity, and transferring the digital merchandise to the first entity via a delivering
10 entity including information operable to deliver the digital merchandise to the first entity without revealing the first sensitive information to the third entity.